

DISTRICT UPDATE

www.armyengineersnorfolk.com

January 8, 2009

DISTRICT NEWS

New Year, new building, new future

Virginia Governor Tim Kaine will mark Fort Lee's first completed military construction project of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure authorization by joining Maj. Gen. James E. Chambers, Combined Arms Support Command and Fort Lee commanding general on Friday to cut the ribbon for the Sustainment Center of Excellence (SCOE) headquarters. (more)

LOGU moving right along to April completion

The Army Logistics University, being built by the Army Corps of Engineers, will train officers, warrant officers, noncommissioned officers and federal civilians on a state-of-the-art educational campus environment at Fort Lee, Va. (Video Story)

King roommate, freedom fighter speaks to district

Few men or women can claim to have marched alongside the legendary Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Even less men can claim to be a roommate of the slain civil rights leader and icon. Reverend Harold E. Pinkston Sr. can claim both. (more)

Norfolk District presented 45-pound ball

In a ceremony held Jan. 6 at Norfolk District's Waterfield building headquarters, Baltimore District staff presented Norfolk District Commander Col. Dionysios Anninos a 45-pound cannon ball recovered from the Former Nansemond Ordnance Depot in Suffolk, Va. (more)

NORFOLK DISTRICT IN THE NEWS

Bomb cleanup on Plum Tree Island refuge could take years (The Virginian-Pilot)

Army Corps to start cleanup of a former bomb-testing site (The Virginian-Pilot)

Cobbs Creek Reservoir plan still a priority (Powhatan Today)

USACE/VA/DOD NEWS

Army Corps of Engineers Website 'rebuilt'

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers homepage, located at www.usace.army.mil, received a new look and feel for 2009. (more)

PUBLIC NOTICES

New revised version of the Tidewater Joint Permit Application (JPA). (more)

Proposal to perform both maintenance and new dredging at an existing boat basin in Virginia Beach, Va. (more)

